GRANDILOQUENT WORD OF THE DAY™

Aquabob [AH-kwuh-bahb]

(n.) 1. Hanging, tapering ice formed by freezing drips of water; an icicle.

USED IN A SENTENCE:

"He met with an unenviable demise in Manhattan yestermorn, having been categorically transpierced by an unfortuitously dislodged Brobdingnagian aquabob which had theretofore depended from the beak of a gargoyle on the forty-ninth floor of the Woolworth building on Broadway."

OBSERVATION DECK

FEBRUARY 2021
WITH ELLARD

Condolences to families who have lost loved ones lately:
Ida Cunning, Fay Corkal, Mark Dyer and Jim Chapman

BIG THANK YOU ~ to the mining companies for adopting Covid 19 protocol and abiding by the Department of health Guidelines. All people entering their properties must fill out a daily questionnaire/APP, have their temperature taken and wear a mask. The results to date are fantastic, which proves 'Do this right and we will all benefit.'

Community strength starts here!

(Centenarian & Nonagenarian & Octogenarian)

Onaping Falls remains a close community. Built as mining towns with mining families. These women raised families, lead clubs, played softball and curled. They were a driving force behind our great communities....and some still are! I hope to interview and listen and share some of their stories in the future. For now, THANK YOU for all you are doing and enjoy your Valentines Day and many years to come!
