REMEMBER

On November 11th
at 11am please bow your head in silence for a moment of silence in honour our fallen soldiers.

On Monday, October 23rd construction began on our much awaited Splash Pad at the Onaping Community Centre.

Such an exciting time for our small community with this addition to our facilities.

The Splash Pad will have a mining theme and will include engaging water features such as shower heads and spray jets that keep children laughing for hours.

Carrie Morin and Valerie Besserer, and a few others, spearheaded this idea and with hard work and perseverance saw it through to this stage. By next summer we can all enjoy the fun and entertainment that it will bring to our families. Splash Pads are free to enjoy and a great way to be the heat.

So..in Summer 2018 ..grab your towels, your waterproof sunscreen and soak up some summer time fun at the new Splash Pad. More details to follow in the upcoming months so stay tuned here to the Onaping Falls News for updates.

In May of 1999 Levack welcomed our newest business owner, Mr. John Gouchie (pronounced Go-Chay) when he and his wife bought the Levack Home Hardware from, then owner, Brian Piccolo. Over the last 18 years John has been a huge support to our community with his great attitude towards a small town environment, 'I enjoy the personal interaction and connection with people and what they are doing' says Mr. Gouchie.

Owning a Home Hardware offers a great spectrum of clientele because of the large variety of product it sells. As a homeowner himself of 35 years John is personally knowledgeable on the products we all need to keep our home in good shape.

John was headed for college to become a Graphic Designer when he received an enticing phone call from Inco. He opted out of college and became a plumbers apprentice at Inco for a few years. The dreaded Inco layoffs, that we are all familiar with, led John into a job in the plumbing division of the Walden Home Hardware for 20 years...soon after he became Manager in Walden he was offered the purchase of the Levack Home Hardware and, well, the rest is history :) I have only known John a short time but he has been a wonderful support to our local events such as Homecoming, the upstart of the Onaping Falls News and gave large donations of candy to both the Levack 'Junk in the Trunk' and the Onaping 'Safe Halloween' at the Legion.

Go in and say Hi to John and his staff.....they are all friendly and helpful. The month of November they will be getting ready for Christmas.

Be sure to shop at the Levack Home Hardware for all your holidays needs!

The Learning Curve

5 Tips for Parent Teacher Interviews

Parent-teacher interviews can be a bit like playing poker. You've got to know when to hold 'em, when to fold 'em, when to walk away and when to run. These 5 minute bites of time can either form a fantastic working relationship between parents and teachers or destroy any possibility of a partnership. Follow these tips to ensure yours are a success!

Come Prepared: Bring your child's report card or interim report with you, as well as a couple specific questions you'd like the teacher to answers.

Be Aware of Time Constraints: If there has been a scheduled time for the interview, be aware of it and stick to it. If it's a drop in type of interview then be cognizant of the line forming – if there isn't one, chat away; if there is, keep it quick.

Use the Positivity Sandwich: If you have negative feedback to share, start with a positive comment, then deliver the negative snippet and follow up quickly with a resolution to the potential problem. This approach will stop the teacher from feeling attacked, which would cause them to go on the defensive.

Don't Question Teacher Observations: Teachers are your right hand in parenting your child this school year. When they tell you something about your child, they aren't lying; they genuinely care about your child's success and are trying to communicate information they feel is important. Don't question their honesty regarding your child's behaviour or progress.

Avoid a Hostile Public Interview: At times parents know that there is going to be a conflict at a parent-teacher interview due to either a prior issue or a low student grade. Parent-teacher interviews are NOT the place to engage in this more challenging conference. If you know your interview may head in this direction, contact the teacher to schedule a more private and lengthy meeting at another time.

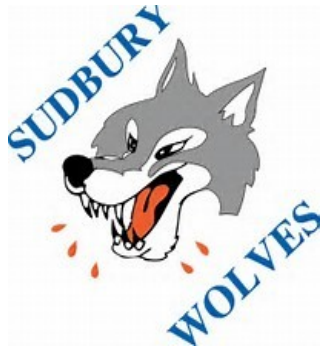

- Progress reports go home on November 1st.

Halloween success!!!

Thank you to volunteers who came out to make our 1st Annual Safe Halloween a success. Over 100 kids came to trick or treat through the Legion Halloween trail. The Legion Ladies Auxiliary brewed some hot chocolate for everyone. The Rec Committee set up a fun colouring station. And Thank you to the Home Hardware, Kwikway, Legion Branch 503, Onaping Falls Curling Club, Onaping Falls Golden Age Club and the Windy Lake Motel for their generous donation of tons of candy for our ghosts and goblins! The Safe Halloween stop was the perfect warm up break/potty break after visiting downtown Levacks 'Junk in the Trunk' event. A big Thank You to Chantelle Gorham for organizing this event along with the downtown stores. Thanks to our awesome friend and neighbor, Ernie Cook, who braved the wind and cold to hand out candy from his trunk again this year. It was a chilly night but the snow held off! Let's do it again next year folks!

Blues Outdoor World

Although the whitetail deer season has been open in many WMU's since October 1st for bow, the rifle season is fast approaching as it will begin on November 6th and closes on November 18th. As the bush begins to fill up with experienced whitetail enthusiasts and many beginners, I would like to offer up a few reminders/tips to help you target that monster buck! Whether you still hunt, hunt from a stand, or hunt in a blind, these tips will surely help.

Scent Control - Always be sure to spray down with any of the scent killers on the market to cover any human scents. Stay Motionless - Try to move slowly as whitetails have excellent sight. Play the Wind - Always locate downwind; a deer's sense of smell is second to none.

Rattle/Grunt - A grunt tube or rattle bag can sometimes get that buck closer. Stay Silent - avoid unnatural sounds and be sure your equipment is silent. Rubs/Scrapes - Only hunt areas with sign such as rubs/scrapes, beds, or game trails. Otherwise, you're wasting precious time.

Feed and Beds - Like humans deer have to rest and eat, so if you can find a spot between the kitchen and the bedroom you will increase your chances largely. Often, mineral attractants (and there are a ton of them), hay with alfalfa, or apples can help. Edge - Deer are creatures of edge, which means they love clear-cut edges and vegetation transition zones, so if you can find this, hunt it. Droppings - This suggests a feeding area.

I hope this helps, and good luck in the field - 'Blue'

Community Heart & Soul

(A little about somebody) by Dolly Gordon-Andrews

Meet Samantha Brazeau-Wilson - a past resident who is making her mark as a handmade artist in Ottawa.

Samantha grew up in the Onaping Falls community and moved to Ottawa in 2010 to attend college and university. Graduating in 2013 in Journalism. Samantha is a talented writer and has her own blog, written articles for Ottawa Family Living Magazine, Ottawa Wedding Magazine, Fifty-Five Plus Magazine and will continue to write articles for the Onaping Falls News.

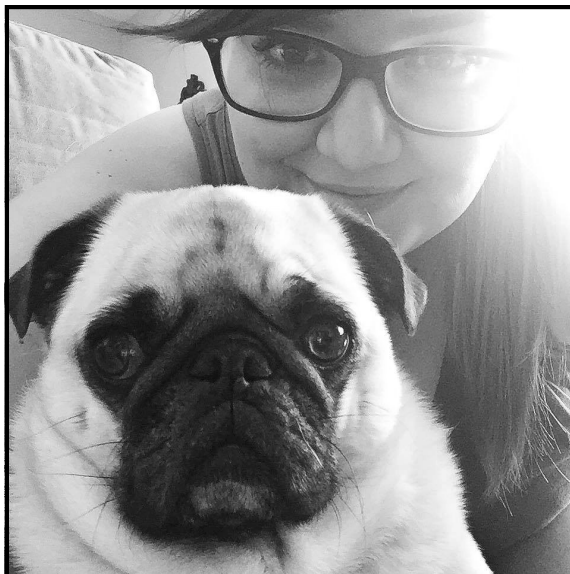

Since her move to the nation's capital she has started her own creative business called Birch Jewellery - a collection of accessories inspired by Canadian nature.

There are several different things that inspired her to start her collection, but growing up in Levack, Onaping and Dowling gave her a deep rooted love for the beautiful landscape we are fortunate to have in our community. Her collection features necklaces, earrings and bracelets that feature unique materials such as real leaves plated in silver and gold, naturally shed deer antlers, raw crystals and bullet casings.

"Growing up in a small town you learn to love and appreciate the simple things, like nature," she said. "Bringing materials like amethyst and quartz into my pieces remind me of the mines back at home where a lot of my family worked. The deer antlers and bullets are reminiscent of my dad and family who always hunted in the fall and of course the leaves are a significant symbol in the community."

Samantha sells her handmade pieces in several local stores in the Ottawa area and has been slowly spreading across Canada where she now has pieces available in Saskatchewan, the Yukon and, soon, Nova Scotia. Her biggest accomplishment this year is getting her collection in the Canadian Canoe Museum gift shop as well as the Ottawa Art Gallery.

Samantha is also a very talented photographer. Having worked for a photo studio for a small time she perfected portraiture. I personally love her portrait selfies she takes with her pet pug, Frankie (see below). Frankie is the most adorably photogenic pug you will ever see.

Onaping Falls News Readers are welcome to 15% off the Birch Jewellery collection until December 15, 2017 by using the code OFNEWS15 at www.birchjewellery.com.

You can read Samantha's blog on her Birch Jewellery website.

And that's a little bit about Samantha Brazeau-Wilson.
